“what is the recipe for your chicken nuggets?”

NICK R. Ottawa, ON

Our answer:

Our Chicken McNuggets are made with chicken breast and a few seasonings, along with a natural proportion of chicken skin, used for both flavour and as a binder. They're then coated in our tempura-style batter and cooked in 100% vegetable oil.

“Do you use deformed chickens in your chicken nuggets?”

KURLIN H. Edmonton, AB

Our answer:

No, deformed chickens are not used to produce any of our products. All McDonald's chicken products are produced in a federally-registered facility. As such, the Canadian Food Inspection Agency inspects all birds processed in the facility, removing any deformed birds from the process and ensuring that they do not enter the food chain. Thanks for your question, Kurtlin.

“do you feed your chicken growth hormones?!”

KAITLIN M. Winnipeg, MB

Our answer:

Hi Kaitlin. No, the chickens that are used for our product are not raised on growth hormones. The practice is actually illegal in Canada and has been since the 1960s.

“Why do all your “McNuggets” look exactly the same?”

BRAYDEN H. Canada

Our answer:

Hi there, Brayden. Look closer: our Chicken McNuggets aren't quite the same. We actually have four different shapes of McNuggets – the ball, boot, bell and bow-tie. The reason that we make our Chicken McNuggets similar in dimension is to ensure consistency. Consistency of shape guarantees portion control and consistent cooking times for food safety.

“Do you use chicken breast?”

HEATHER E. Toronto, ON

Our answer:

Hi Heather. Yes, we use chicken breast in several of our menu items. Our Chicken McNuggets are made with seasoned chicken breast and a natural proportion of chicken skin used as a binder. Our McChicken and Junior Chicken patties are a combination of breast, thigh and leg meat. And our McBistro sandwiches are made from seasoned portions of chicken breast. You can also get chicken breast in our snack wraps and salads. All white meat. All delicious.

“Is there any alien in the chicken nuggets?”

SEAN F. Edmonton, AB

Our answer:

There are no aliens in our Chicken McNuggets, Sean. Our McNuggets are made of seasoned chicken breast and a few seasonings, along with a natural proportion of skin for flavour and as a binder. The only thing out of this world about our Chicken McNuggets is the flavour.

“what parts of the chicken do you use?”

CATHERINE P. Ottawa, ON

Our answer:

The delicious ones, Catherine! We use only the breast, thigh, and leg in our sandwiches and McNuggets. Here's how it breaks down specifically: For Chicken McNuggets – chicken breast and a natural proportion of chicken skin; for McChicken – chicken breast, thigh and leg; for Junior Chicken – chicken breast, thigh and leg; for Crispy McBistro – chicken breast; for Grilled McBistro – chicken breast; for Snack Wrap Chicken, grilled or crispy – chicken breast.

“is the chicken real or pink sludge”

LIAM M. Brampton, ON

Our answer:

Hi Liam. No, our chicken is not made from pink sludge. All of our chicken products, from our McChicken sandwich to our iconic Chicken McNuggets, are made with real chicken meat from the breast, leg and thigh. Our McNuggets also have a natural proportion of chicken skin as a binder.

Getting to know Edward Cornwallis

Halifax. Author set to launch first-ever definitive examination of city's controversial founder

RUTH DAVENPORT
ruth.davenport@metronews.ca

A local author hopes his biography on the founder of Halifax will advance the controversy over Edward Cornwallis beyond the polarized positions of "heroic founder," or "genocidal invader."

"That's why we've been stuck on this for 20 years," says Jon Tatttrie, author of Cornwallis: The Violent Birth of Halifax.

"If you say he was just the hero founder ... or just the invader, you can't answer. But he was both those things."

Tatttrie is hosting a public discussion of the book Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Maritime Museum of the Atlantic, entitled Cornwallis: Hero or Horror?

Tatttrie says he started researching the book after local historians called for the removal of the English general's statue from a south-end park, citing his 1749 scalp proclamation on the Mi'kmaq in Nova Scotia.

The request has sparked fierce debates between supporters, who say Cornwallis was only doing what was necessary to defend his fledgling settlement, and critics who say he violated existing Mi'kmaq treaties by positioning his settlements on key native hunting grounds and waterways.

The medium is the message

"With the statue, we're literally putting him on a pedestal and he's in such a prominent place at the bus station, the train station, where the cruise ships come in.... It's an implicit endorsement of him."

Jon Tatttrie, journalist and author of Cornwallis: The Violent Birth of Halifax

"We kind of see Cornwallis as though he only had one choice to make ... but his letters with London and his council minutes show him discussing different strategies," says Tatttrie, who spent months reading handwritten documents in the Nova Scotia Archives.

The book paints the picture of a rigidly loyal British subject who carried out a ruthlessly efficient suppression of Jacobite rebels in the Scottish Highlands and took a similar approach — violence rather than diplomacy — in Nova Scotia.

Tatttrie says he believes the statue in Cornwallis Park should be either relocated to a museum and displayed in the proper historical context, or at least accompanied by more information.

"What we are saying with this statue is this man represents something about us that's important," he says.

"It is a statement of current values, and it doesn't give you any context."

Author Jon Tatttrie has released his latest book, Cornwallis: The Violent Birth of Halifax.

Rescue. Man survives night alone after boat capsizes

A 51-year-old Halifax man is being treated for exposure after the boat he was on capsized on Sunday evening.

Police were called to Trout Lake in the area of Musquodoboit Harbour at about 8 a.m. on Monday.

Two men were able to make it to shore after their boat overturned, but police say one of them suffered from a medical condition and he was unable to walk to safety.

His friend found blankets in a nearby cabin and bundled him up before heading off to look for help.

"He started going for help at approximately 10 o'clock (Sunday) night, so he had a long hike until he got out (Monday) morning," Halifax RCMP Sgt. Mike Lidstone said.

RCMP officers, along with Emergency Health Services, Natural Resources officials and members of the volunteer group Marine Riders were eventually able to find the man near the lakeshore.

Lidstone said a Cormorant helicopter from the Department of National Defence was used to get the man to hospital for treatment.

"It was a very remote location, with thick brush and steep hills and steep grades, so it was very hard to get out there," he said.

It's unknown what caused the men's boat to overturn.

Woman dead in head-on crash

Lost control of vehicle. Stretch of road in Cole Harbour closed for several hours on Monday

Halifax police are investigating a fatal crash on Highway 107 in Cole Harbour.

At about 3:50 p.m. on Monday, RCMP in Halifax were called to a head-on collision on the Forest Hills Parkway Extension between two vehicles — a Toyota car driven by a 51-year-old Porters Lake woman and a GMC truck driven by a 72-year-old Cole Harbour man.

Police say the woman, who died at the scene, lost control of her car and it crashed into the truck. The driver of the truck was taken to hospital with non-life-threatening injuries.

The Forest Hills Parkway

Extension between Montague Road and Main Street was closed for more than five hours as officers investigated the crash.

It was raining at the time of the accident.

At press time, police had not released the name of the deceased woman. METRO

Wentzell's Lake

Elderly man dies in boating mishap

An 80-year-old man has died after a boat overturned on a Nova Scotia lake over the holiday weekend.

RCMP say two men had been fishing on Wentzell's Lake near Bridgewater at about 5:30 p.m. on Saturday when their small aluminium boat overturned.

The Mounties, emergency workers and fire officials arrived at the scene and found that the two men had already been taken to shore by other boaters.

Police say Harris Arthur Turner of West Northfield died in hospital late Saturday night.

A 63-year-old man was also taken to hospital but was later released.

The cause of the incident is under investigation.

Seven-year sentence. 'I was an evil person,' says man involved in shooting

The 19-year-old man who encouraged a friend to shoot Spryfield senior Glenn Oakley has been sentenced to seven years in prison.

Jerricho Carter Melvin Upshaw stared straight ahead as Justice Robert Wright delivered the sentence Friday afternoon in Halifax Supreme Court.

"This was an incomprehensible, random act of great violence," said Wright, adding that the crime had shaken the community's "sense of safety."

Oakley, 70, was shot during his regular evening walk on November 19, 2011. The court heard Upshaw and a young friend were standing by the Drysdale Road bridge when they spotted Oakley.

Upshaw encouraged his friend to shoot Oakley with the rifle, saying "do it." They later stole Oakley's debit and credit cards and attempted to take money out of his accounts.

Upshaw pleaded guilty to manslaughter last month.

shaw said as he addressed the court and specifically apologized to Sheila Oakley, Glenn's widow who sat in the front row.

"I'm sorry I'm one of the people that caused you so much grief. I've earned every day I have to spend in jail," Upshaw said.

There was a collective gasp from the crowded benches of people supporting Upshaw as Wright announced the seven-year sentence, which was longer than even the Crown's recommendation of five years.

Wright said Upshaw will receive credit for the 410 days already served, leaving approximately five years and 10 months into the sentence.

"I hope that he will pay but I do forgive him," said Sheila Oakley during her address to the court. "I don't hate him."

Indict Mr. Wright and cuff the Duff?

Senate expenses scandal. NDP calls on Mounties to inspect the legality of $90,000 gift

The federal New Democrats have asked the Mounties to determine whether Prime Minister Stephen Harper's former right-hand man broke any laws by cutting a personal cheque to cover an embattled senator's improper housing expenses.

The NDP's ethics critic, MP Charlie Angus, wrote to RCMP Commissioner Bob Paulson on Monday asking the force to look into the actions of Nigel Wright.

Wright abruptly quit his job Sunday as Harper's chief of staff, days after it emerged that he gave Sen. Mike Duffy $90,000 to repay his housing claims.

Angus says the gift may have broken the law. He added that Harper had a duty to explain to Canadians just what happened.

"We haven't heard the prime minister say that a secret cash payment to a politician is wrong, and whether the prime minister knew, at what point he knew. He must have known something," Angus said.

"Because if it happened under his watch and he did nothing about it, that would be absolutely shocking."

Elijah Harper. Mourners salute MP who blocked the Meech Lake accord

Hundreds lined up inside the Manitoba legislature Monday to pay their respects to Elijah Harper, the aboriginal politician whose quiet but firm resistance to the Meech Lake constitutional accord became a symbolic moment for indigenous rights.

"He gave us all inspiration to know that it's OK to say no sometimes," says Derek Nepinak, grand chief of the Assembly of Manitoba Chiefs.

Young and old made their way past the casket, adorned with a Manitoba flag and an eagle-feather headdress. Nearby were portraits of Harper with an eagle feather in his hand, similar to the one he held in 1990 when he denied the unanimous consent needed to rush the accord through to final approval.

Harper was elected chief of Red Sucker Lake in the late 1970s and was elected to the Manitoba legislature in 1981. He was in the NDP opposition benches during the federal government's 1990 attempt Harper believed the deal gave his people short shrift.

Mexican media outlets are reporting that a Canadian and an American have gone missing from the resort city of Puerto Vallarta.

A Facebook group that aims to collect tips about the men's whereabouts says their families fear it was a kidnapping.

It says the pair was last seen in Silva's truck, a black 2003 Chevy Trailblazer, which has since been recovered by Mexican authorities.

Get ready to break out the sunscreen, but don't worry about sizzling all season.

Meteorologists at AccuWeather.com say the majority of Canadians can look forward to a more "typical" summer this year, when hot spells will be interspersed with cooler periods.

"The biggest takeaway from this forecast is it's not going to resemble last year's summer, which was the warmest summer on record," said Brett Anderson, lead forecaster for Canada.

"We're going to see much more changeable weather."

Hot and not

"We do not expect patterns where it's going to lock in for weeks on end of hot dry weather."

Brett Anderson, AccuWeather.com's lead forecaster for Canada

The season is still going to rank among the top-10 warmest on record, but that's largely due to recurring warm temperatures in the Far North.

A warmer-than-average summer predicted for much of Atlantic Canada has turned up as one of the surprises in the forecast, said Anderson.

"This summer is going to shape up to one they're going to like," he said, pointing to a persistent high-pressure system and warmer-than-normal temperatures in the Atlantic.

"There's going to be days when it cools down. It's not going to be super persistent, but overall I think it ends up warmer than normal."

Tunisian feminist arrested in holy city

Mother of 19-year-old protester who posted topless photos online fears for daughter's life

A Tunisian feminist who scandalized her country by posting topless photos of herself online has been arrested after allegedly sneaking into Tunisia's holiest city disguised in a veil, then trying to get undressed during a protest.

On Sunday, Amina Tyler — a 19-year-old member of the Ukrainian feminist group FEMEN, which uses nudity in its protests — passed through heavy security and checkpoints to enter the city of Kairouan, where police were preventing hardline conservative Islamists from holding an annual conference.

There she unveiled her bleached blond hair and cut-off jeans, scrawled "FEMEN" on the wall of a cemetery near the city's main mosque, and attempted to take off her clothes, her lawyer Radhia Nasraoui quoted police as saying.

In a video of the incident shown on the Tunisian news website Nawaat, people yell "get out" at her as police usher her into a waiting van.

A local resident shouts at the camera: "She is dishonouring us. We will protect our town, but a dirty girl like her shouldn't come among us."

"We are all Muslims," Tyler says to one man, who replies: "You are no Muslim. Don't come to Kairouan."

China. Blast tears through explosives factory killing at least 12, burying others

A massive blast ripped through an explosives factory on Monday in eastern China, killing at least 12 people and leaving others buried in the debris, state media reported.

Rescuers were taking care to avoid setting off additional explosions as they searched the site of the explosion in Shandong province's Caofan township, the China News Service said. The company website said the factory, run by the Baoli group, manufactures 10,000 tons of explosives annually.

The force of the blast flung broken glass, smashed concrete, and other debris as far as 200 metres, reports said. Walls in outlying buildings were flattened and glass shattered.

A total of 34 people were inside the factory at the time of the blast, and survivors were rushed to a hospital. The cause of the blast and condition of those injured were not immediately known.

Monstrous tornado rips through Oklahoma City suburb; scores dead

Tragedy. Tornado warnings posted all the way from Texas to Illinois in wake of deadly twister

A tornado of rare power roared through an Oklahoma City suburb, killing at least 51, flattening neighbourhoods with winds of up to 320 km/h and destroying at least one school. Officials said children were among the dead.

The death toll was expected to rise, an Oklahoma Medical Examiner's Office spokeswoman said. Rescuers swarmed the debris as darkness fell.

More than 140 people were being treated at hospitals, including about 70 children. Some were in critical condition.

"Hearts are broken" for parents looking for their children, Gov. Mary Fallin told a news conference.

The ferocious storm — less than one per cent of all tornadoes reach such wind speed — ripped through the suburb of Moore in a Midwest region of the U.S. known as Tornado Alley.

Block after block lay in ruins. Cars and trucks were left crumpled.

The National Weather Service estimated that the tornado reached up to a half-mile (0.8 kilometres) wide and was an EF-4 on the enhanced five-point Fujita scale, the second-most powerful type of twister.

In video footage, the dark funnel cloud moved slowly across the landscape for more than half an hour, scattering shards of wood, pieces of insulation, shingles and glass over the streets.

The focus quickly turned to Plaza Towers Elementary

School, where the storm tore off the roof, knocked down walls and turned the playground into a mass of twisted plastic and metal.

Several children were pulled alive from the rubble. Rescue workers passed them down a human chain to a triage centre in the parking lot.

James Rushing, who lives across the street, heard reports of the approaching tornado and ran to the school, where his five-year-old foster son, Aiden, attends classes. Rushing believed he would be safer there.

"About two minutes after I got there, the school started coming apart," he said.

Dangers remained. Downed power lines and open gas lines posed a risk Monday night, Police Capt. Dexter Nelson said. Television footage showed at least one fire in the debris.

Quebec student protesters are fighting fines — with a panda

Anarchopanda.

$31,000 raised to fight 1,000 tickets handed out and to challenge Montreal bylaw that bans masks

A philosophy professor who famously wore a panda costume to lighten the mood throughout last year's Quebec student protests has found a new cause.

Anarchopanda, the unofficial mascot of the Quebec student strikes, has completed a fundraising campaign to contest fines levied against protesters in recent months.

More than $31,000 has been raised according to Anarchopanda — whose real identity is Julien Villeneuve.

He became a local celebrity during the student strikes where, clad as the bamboo-munching bear, he peacefully marched with students, offer hugs to police.

Although the strikes ended last year, the most committed core of protesters carried on this spring. First they fought the smaller tuition hikes introduced by the Parti Québécois and, lately, have been contesting an alleged crackdown on civil liberties.

Villeneuve was detained last month and fined $637 for not respecting a Montreal bylaw that has become the focus of the civil-liberties dispute.

He is now fighting that local bylaw, P-6 — which bans masks at protests and imposes fines that range from $500 to $1,000 for a first offence.

The bylaw was passed at a time that Montreal was on edge, with daily demonstrations occasionally devolving into street scuffles, blocked downtown traffic, smashed windows, and transit interruptions.

Police shooting sparks riots in Stockholm

Gangs of youth in Sweden angered by the police shooting death of an elderly man in a mainly immigrant neighbourhood hurled rocks at police and set cars and buildings on fire in a Stockholm suburb early Monday, forcing the evacuation of an apartment block.

Around 50 youths were involved in the riots in the suburb of Husby, a drab, low-income neighbourhood of apartment blocks west of Stockholm.

The youths set light to a parking garage, compelling police to evacuate residents from an adjacent apartment block.

Around 80 per cent of the 11,000 people in Husby are first or second generation immigrants.

Yahoo buys Tumblr; CEO makes promise not to 'screw it up'

Social media. Deal is biggest move of Marissa Mayer's 10-month reign

Yahoo is buying online blogging forum Tumblr for $1.1 billion US as CEO Marissa Mayer tries to rejuvenate an Internet pioneer that had fallen behind the times.

The deal announced Monday is Mayer's boldest move since she left Google 10 months ago to lead Yahoo's latest comeback attempt. It marks Yahoo's most expensive acquisition since the Sunnyvale, Calif., company bought online search engine Overture a decade ago for $1.3 billion US in cash and stock.

month, Mayer told analysts Monday that she is "making a sincere promise to not screw it up." David Karp, a high-school dropout who started Tumblr six years ago, will remain in control of the service in an effort to retain the same "irreverence, wit and commitment to empower creators," Yahoo said.

Karp, 26, may now have a managerial mentor in Mayer, 37. Tumblr, which will remain based in New York, has about 175 employees while Yahoo has 11,300 workers.

Viewing habits. Netflix CEO takes on conventional TV

Netflix CEO Reed Hastings is standing in line at a bustling Toronto coffee shop, summing up a speech he's set to deliver later in the day on the future of television, when he spies an example of his vision that's so perfect it almost seems planted by his PR team.

Smiling, he points to a young couple oblivious to their surroundings in the crowded café. They're snuggled together behind a laptop, sharing a pair of earbud headphones, and engrossed in a video they're streaming via the in-house Wi-Fi. "People look to Netflix when they have some time to relax, some time to kill and want some stimulation, and that's not limited to the living room at 8 p.m.," Hastings later says in an interview. "What's great about an Internet service, whether it's YouTube or Netflix, is you can (use) it on many different platforms — that's really where TV is going."

Netflix recently published a letter to shareholders outlining how the firm believes it will thrive at the expense of conventional broadcast TV.

Millions of dollars worth of lamb and other meat from New Zealand is stranded on Chinese docks. GETTY IMAGES FILE

Lotsa lamb chops left in the lurch

Hundreds of tons of frozen mutton, lamb and beef from New Zealand have been stranded on Chinese docks after China halted their import due to a certification dispute.

China is New Zealand's largest consumer of sheep meat. It has blocked all New Zealand frozen beef and sheep meat that has arrived in the past two or three weeks, said Dan Coup, trade and economic manager for the Meat Industry Association of New Zealand.

The meat sitting in freezers at the docks is worth tens of millions of dollars. Because it is frozen, it will last months, Coup said.

WHY CAN'T WE ACCEPT PRAISE?

There's a fine art to accepting a compliment graciously. Most people have a tendency to offer up self-deprecating responses rather than acknowledging positive feedback.

Here are a few actual examples that I've overheard in real life:

"Your new haircut looks fantastic. 'Seriously? You don't think it's too short? It's definitely too short; I look like a boy.'"

"I love your new dress." "Oh, I just found it on a rack at Value Village. I swear I only paid $5.99 for it."

"Congratulations on finishing med school!" "Thanks but I have no idea how I pulled that off. I'll probably accidentally sever off an arm or stitch someone's mouth shut in, like, the first week."

Now there's nothing wrong with a little modesty, but it can be problematic when we're constantly deflecting flattery

SHE SAYS

Jessica Napier

metronews.ca

rather than recognizing our own hard work.

In my experience, it seems that women are far more likely than men to rebuff positive attention with a dismissive hand wave or a reciprocal "no you're so great" comment. We've been socialized to value lady-like decorum over boastfulness and as a result, we have a hard time owning up to our talents and achievements.

I rarely respond to compliments in an appropriate manner. I know that I should reply with a heartfelt "thank you" but I'm far more likely to fall back on a sarcastic retort or a "thanks BUT (insert qualifying statement that undermines my success in some way)."

I'm working on my graciousness because I know how annoying I'm being when I act like this.

Recently, a friend invited me over to her apartment for a small dinner party. I spent a large portion of the evening remarking on how delicious the food was, but she repeatedly brushed me off and insisted the meal was so easy to prepare that even the biggest kitchen klutz could recreate it. Here was this culinary whiz acting as if she had simply toasted a slice of bread and making me feel foolish for lavishing her with praise.

It sucks to be on the receiving end of a snarky retort when you're trying to offer up kudos for a job well done. I know how frustrating it can be when someone refuses to take admiration seriously or gives you a dismissive eye-roll and yet that doesn't stop me from doing the same thing.

While it might make us feel uncomfortable to acknowledge our own awesomeness, I think it's an important skill to learn. People are usually being genuine when they pay you a compliment and it's only polite to respond in a sincere and courteous manner. Besides, we all deserve to be proud of ourselves and toot our own horn every once in a while.

STEPHANE VETTER

To photograph something as broad as the aurora, you need to make a panoramic image. So I took four vertical images and later joined them together on a computer program. Each photo had an exposure time of 15 seconds and the entire panorama took less than two minutes to take, but I had to wait three hours for the Milky Way to be near the horizon.

What lasting impression should we take from this?
Make sure to have your feet on the ground and head in the stars. People have lost their relationship with nature, so we must reconnect. METRO

RE: Harper To Be On Hot Seat At Tuesday Caucus After Chief Of Staff Quits, published online May 19

Tsk, tsk, tsk. The Tories are throwing themselves under the bus, again, just like the good old days.

Prime Minister Stephen Harper's appointments are turning into a cement anchor just as the suddenly badly listing Tory ship is looking for a safe harbour to steam towards — and a new captain to get it there. Harper should resign. Tsk, tsk, tsk.

Meanwhile, it looks as though new Liberal Leader Justin Trudeau won't have to do or say a thing between now and the next election to be elected prime minister.

Stories We Tell

Actor/director Sarah Polley's personal documentary is extraordinary in every way, from its post-modern structure to the raw emotion of its carefully revealed family secrets. Stories We Tell isn't just about any family, but Polley's own. She and her loved ones summon the necessary courage not only to delve into extremely difficult subjects, but also to face up to life-altering consequences. Seeking definitive answers for long-whispered family rumours, and using her film as an investigative tool, the Toronto filmmaker unearths a blunt fact: Michael Polley, the man who raised her since her 1979 birth and whom she still calls Dad, is not her biological father. Stories We Tell is as direct as a blood transfusion. It's a film of fact, remembrance and forgiveness, with no clear path. You just have to trust in Sarah Polley's steely determination and follow her relentless lens. In a word: wow.

The Hangover Part III opens this Friday. HANDOUT

The journey from Dr. Jeong to Mr. Chow

Fixing funny bones.

Ken Jeong's comedy began as a hobby, but after some big roles, his success is beyond anything he ever imagined

scene@metronews.ca

"I honestly don't think my career will get any better than this," says Ken Jeong. "I think I've peaked."

Jeong returns in The Hangover Part III as Mr. Chow, the violent gangster with a heart of gold. Or at least fool's gold.

"He's a villain who likes to laugh," says Jeong. "Mr. Chow changed my life," he says.

"He opened up a new world for me and I was able to work a lot as an actor because of the first Hangover. Now this is the biggest role I've ever had, in the part that I'm most well known for. You can't ask for better than that.

"This is beyond anything I ever expected. When I quit my day job as a doctor I just wanted to be a working actor. I just wanted to have lines in movies. That's all I ever wanted."

Before finding fame as an actor, Jeong lead a double life — practicing medicine during the day and doing standup at night.

"I wasn't trying to keep (the two lives) separate, like Clark Kent separate," he says. "It was my hobby, my golf. It was a way for me to keep up with the intense hours of medicine. Work hard, play hard mentality."

These days he is in touch with some of his former patients.

"I have patients that I email with or keep in contact with on Facebook and they're always happy for me because I wasn't a wacky, schtick guy when I was a doctor."

"I was pretty intense and pretty serious."

"The stuff I get now from my patients is, 'We're just so happy you have an outlet. You were just so serious. We thought you would explode.'

"When they found out I did standup comedy back in the day when I was practising medicine they'd say, 'I'm so happy for you. You've finally found a way to channel all this stress out.'"

The Hangover Part III is the finale of the series, but Jeong would like to see Mr. Chow go on more adventures.

"Mr. Chow, and I'm not saying this because I'm promoting the movie, is my favourite character," he says. "The spectrum of imagination on that character is so wide."

"I would love to see him in any situation and see what he would say or do. I would love a Chow spin-off. I love that character so much."

NBC is looking to smooth things over with Ann Curry, the Today show co-host that was unceremoniously dumped from the show last summer, in the hopes that she can score the first sit-down interview with Angelina Jolie following the actress' revelation that she underwent a double mastectomy, according to Radar Online.

"Angelina made it known after Ann was demoted from Today that the only journalist to interview her from the Peacock network would be Curry," a source says. "Ann would be prominently featured in all of the promotions and publicity if Angelina agreed to do it." Looks like it's time for the network brass to make nice with Curry.

in Shame. You've actually seen them both, up close. What would you score their assets, out of 10?

He's known for his bottom? I respect them too much to rate that. Channing has worked so hard to be taken seriously and Michael is just automatically taken seriously.

Most guys like the fact they're the stronger one — physically — in a relationship. But you're a martial arts expert and could probably beat the heck out of anyone. How has this affected your romantic relationships?

You don't know any of my ex-boyfriends. They could have been strong. My ex-boyfriend got me into Muay Thai and we would go to the gym and spar. But my relationships are private. I don't want to talk about him.

Do you ever look at people and think, "I could totally kick your butt."

If you don't like someone, of course you have that kind of thought sometimes. You kind of get violent fantasies and then you're like, "Wow! why did I do that?"

Your last professional fight ever. Who would you want to be up against and why?

The person I lost to: Cyborg. You always want to avenge that.

Picnic pick: Pesto Potato Salad

This salad serves eight to 10. MARK SHAPIRO, FROM ROSE REISMAN'S ENLIGHTENED HOME COOKING (ROBERT ROSE)

her on twitter @rosereisman

Traditionally, potato salads are made with loads of mayonnaise, sour cream or oil. My lighter version has a delicious pesto sauce with some crunchy vegetables. It goes great as a side for any barbecued items.

1. Put potatoes in saucepan with cold water to cover; bring to a boil and cook for 20 to 25 minutes, or until easily pierced with a sharp knife. Drain and set aside.

2. Meanwhile, put basil, olive oil, pine nuts, Parmesan, garlic and salt in food processor; process until finely chopped. With the processor running, gradually add stock through the feed tube; process until smooth.

3. In saucepan of boiling water or microwave, blanch snow peas for 1 or 2 minutes, or until tender-crisp; refresh in cold water and drain. Place in large

Ingredients

- 2 lb scrubbed whole red potatoes with skins on

Pesto

- 1 1/4 cups fresh basil leaves
- 3 tbsp olive oil
- 2 tbsp toasted pine nuts
- 2 tbsp grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 tsp minced garlic
- 1/4 tsp salt
- 1/4 cup chicken stock

- 1 cup halved snow peas
- 3/4 cup chopped red onions
- 3/4 cup each chopped red and green peppers
- 1/2 cup corn kernels
- 2 green onions, chopped
- 2 tbsp toasted pine nuts
- 2 tbsp lemon juice

serving bowl, along with pesto, red onions, red and green peppers, corn, green onions, pine nuts and lemon juice. When potatoes are cool enough to handle, cut into wedges and add to serving bowl; toss well to combine. ROSE REISMAN'S ENLIGHTENED HOME COOKING (ROBERT ROSE) BY ROSE REISMAN

Up in the spring ramp

Theresa Albert

I recently asked a friend if she liked ramps. Her response was, "What the @$! are they?"

Only the best thing to happen to spring in a long time. Ramps are wild leeks or wild garlic, depending on who you talk to. They grow across the country in sandy, moist hilly places, often near water. But it is illegal to forage for them in Quebec, where they are protected. Leave the foraging to the hunters and head to a farmers market this month.

Culinarily, both the leaves and bulb are edible and they taste like a cross between onions and garlic. Given their short growing season, you want to add them to just about every pasta, pizza, soup and sandwich spring brings.

Susan Quast at Quast's Garden Gate in Flesherton, Ont., is part of the Grey County Chefs' Forum. She says, "Sauté them in a little butter and then add them to a favourite recipe. You can add them to your salads, chopped with raw potent flavour. The leaves, which are less potent than the bulb, can be used as a wrapper for crab meat appetizers." THERESA ALBERT IS A FOOD COMMUNICATIONS SPECIALIST AND PRIVATE NUTRITIONIST IN TORONTO. Veggies balance ooey, gooey cheese texture in quesadilla

1. Heat the oven to 350 F.

2. In bowl, toss the diced avocado with the lime juice and a bit of salt and pepper. Set aside.

3. In skillet over medium-high, heat 2 teaspoons of the oil. Add onion, bell pepper and pinch of salt, then sauté until golden at edges, about 5 minutes. Add garlic and cook, stirring, 30 seconds. Transfer mixture to a bowl.

4. Add remaining 2 teaspoons of oil to skillet along with the mushrooms and a pinch of salt. Reduce the heat to medium and sauté until the liquid the mushrooms give off has evaporated, about 7 minutes. Transfer the mushrooms to the bowl with the onions and peppers. Add to it the jalapeno, cheese and a bit of salt and pepper. Mix well.

5. Wipe out skillet with paper towel. Coat with cooking spray.

6. Set 2 tortillas flat on the counter. Divide onion-pepper mixture between them, spreading it evenly over each. Press second tortilla firmly over each.

7. Heat skillet over medium. Add one quesadilla and toast until golden, about 2 minutes per side. Transfer to baking

Ingredients

- 1 firm ripe avocado, diced
- 1 tbsp lime juice
- Kosher salt and black pepper
- 4 tsp vegetable oil, divided
- 1/2 cup chopped onion
- 1/2 cup chopped red or green bell pepper (or a mix)
- 1 tsp minced garlic
- 1 1/2 cups sliced mushrooms

- 1/2 fresh jalapeno, finely chopped (seeds and ribs discarded, if desired)
- 2 oz coarsely grated sharp cheddar cheese
- Four 8-inch flour tortillas, preferably whole wheat
- Nonfat plain Greek yogurt
- 1/4 cup chopped cilantro sheet. Repeat with second quesadilla, placing it on baking sheet when toasted. Bake 5 minutes, or until heated through. Cut each quesadilla into quarters, then divide between 4 serving plates. Top each with avocado, yogurt and cilantro.

In a barbecue ideas pickle? No problem

Preparing al fresco feasts for family and friends means stocking up on grilling essentials that will satisfy everyone's taste preferences. From pre-planned meals to impromptu gatherings, the burger is king, so having the right condiments on hand is key.

Chef Matt Basile, creator of the Fidel Gastro Food Truck, has teamed up with Bick's Pickles to recommend the following ideas for keeping everyone fueled up and satisfied.

Afternoon Dockside Gathering

Create a delicious array of mini burger sliders made from a variety of meats, including chicken, beef and even bison. Serve on fresh bakery buns with a selection of cheeses, along with a variety of savouries, such as Bick's Mini-Crunch'ems pickles, sliced beets, and tangy yellow mustard.

Country Burger Buffet

Why not set up a marché style spread that will satisfy everyone's burger tastes? Offer a wide variety of toppings and spreads including: cheeses like cheddar, swiss, or blue; mayo, mustard, hummus, and relishes such as Bick's Hot Pepper Relish and sweet corn. And don't forget the all-important crunch factor with some classic dill pickles.

This Burger Has It All

Nothing says summer like a delicious, juicy hamburger straight off the barbecue — but having plenty of topping options for both adults and kids is essential to enhancing flavour. Why not make it spicy and extra crunchy with hot pepper relish and smoked cheddar cheese topped with bacon, hot pepper rings and some extra garlic pickles? Or, says Bick's, go with an Aussie inspired burger that's topped with sliced beets, grilled pineapple slices, a fried egg and most importantly, Sandwich Savers Extra Garlic Pickles.

1. Combine mayonnaise and

Ingredients

- 1 tbsp (15ml) mayonnaise
- 1 tsp (5ml) chipotle sauce
- 1 hamburger bun
- 1 beef patty
- 3 slices peeled and cored pineapple rings
- 2 slices of crunchy Sandwich Savers Extra Garlic Pickles
- 4 slices of Bick's Sliced Beets, drained
- 1 tsp (5ml) butter
- 1 egg

chipotle sauce and spread on hamburger bun. Set aside.

2. Grill beef patty on high until no longer pink in centre. Place pineapple rings on grill. Grill 1 minute per side, then remove. Place 1/2 of pickles, 1/2 of beets and 2 slices of pineapple on bottom bun. Top with burger and remaining pickles and pineapple. Melt butter in small skillet. Fry egg until crispy and brown. Place on top of burger toppings and replace bun. NEWS CANADA/BICKS.CA

Margarita moonlights as a key dessert ingredient

Although many people may not associate Mexican food with sweets, the refreshing, simple flavours of a margarita are unmistakable in this dessert.

The pie is light, luscious and quick to make. Just make sure you use a high-quality prepared liquid margarita mix with a medium sweet-sour balance.

1. In a medium bowl, using an electric mixer, beat eggs and egg yolks until thick and pale, about 2 minutes. Continue mixing and add lime juice, condensed milk, margarita mix and food colouring and beat for 2 to 3 minutes. 2. Pour into pie shell and bake in 180 C (350 F) oven until centre is firm, about 25 minutes. Let cool completely. Cover and refrigerate until chilled for at least 1 hour or for up to 4 hours.

3. Just before serving, in a medium chilled bowl, using an electric mixer on medium-high speed, beat whipping cream and sugar until soft peaks form, 6 to 8 minutes. Serve slices of pie on individual plates topped with whipped cream and garnished with lime slices. THE CANADIAN PRESS/ 200 EASY MEXICAN RECIPES: AUTHENTIC RECIPES FROM BURRITOS TO ENCHILADAS BY KELLEY CLEARY COFFEEN (ROBERT ROSE INC., ROBERTROSE.CA, 2013)

This couple's first date might be their last. Don't let that happen to you. ISTOCK IMAGES

Tips to turn the first date into many more

Dating coach. Advice from Amber Madison, a Manhattan-based relationship expert and the author of Are All Guys A-holes?

Don't talk only (or mostly) about yourself

So you've travelled to every continent, do something really important/prestigious and have a bunch of funny stories exhibiting how you can kill the one-liners. The problem is, no one likes to be talked at — even if it's really impressive. There can be a rush to get out all of the positive things about yourself on the first date to try to keep the other person interested. But if you're so concerned about how you're coming across, you're not actually connecting with the other person ... which, you know, is sort of what the date is about.

Don't be difficult to pin down

If your next free night is three weeks from this Tuesday, maybe this isn't the best time in your life to be starting to date someone.

Don't go out to dinner

First of all, if you're a guy this can start to add up fast. But more than that, dinner is a high-pressure situation where you're forced to keep up the conversation because there are no other distractions. This doesn't exactly lend itself to you putting your best foot forward. Instead of dinner (or even drinks) plan an activity date.

Ask job interview questions

The things we talk about on a first date tend to do with where we grew up, went to school, or what we do for a living ... all things that are painful to talk about repeatedly and don't actually get to the crux of who a person is. If you want your first date to be fun and stand out, ask things more along the lines of: what is the creepiest thing you've ever done? What's the closest you've been to getting arrested? Have discussions about getting along with siblings/parents, what you think makes a good movie, whether brunch is awesome or an overpriced breakfast. Really have a conversation together, don't just take turns reciting your resumé.

Don't start planning your wedding

So the date went well? Awesome. But don't let your fantasies get the best of you and convince yourself that this is The One. The truth is, after one date — even a great one — you just don't know someone that well yet. So stay open minded to both the good qualities and the bad instead of painting a full picture of the person you just met based on your very limited information.

New rules for authorized credit card users

Alison on money. Putting a cap on monthly spending helpful for parents of students

YOUR MONEY
Alison Griffiths
money@metronews.ca

I pay scant attention to announcements from my credit card company. Mostly they're telling me about higher fees, restrictions in benefits or otherwise trying to sell me something. But recently CIBC announced a change to authorized user rules for its credit cards. This got my attention.

A primary user can now set a monthly spending maximum for each authorized user. This could benefit parents with students studying, working or interning away from home.

For example, parents paying all expenses for graduates on an unpaid internship might set a high limit. A college or university student living at home might have a lower limit with the agreed use restricted to something like gas for their car.

Setting up a student as an authorized user can offer peace of mind for parents in case of emergencies, but you don't want to put too much credit temptation in front of them.

I have one caution. For emergencies, such as a plane ticket home, the limit must be relatively high. If it is used, the limit is automatically reset the next month, giving the student access to a new amount of credit.

However, the primary user can raise or lower the authorized user's limit during a given month.

It is important to have a clear agreement for authorized users. For students, insist on a monthly spending report. This will help young people take responsibility for their spending and is the first step to making a budget. But parents must still keep watch online and don't let any transgressions slide.

Another possible reason to have an authorized user is when a family member has gone through a bankruptcy and doesn't yet qualify for a credit card. I have done so in the past but would have felt a lot better being able to place a limit on total spending.

Employers might also find it handy to name employees as authorized users and set a limit for business spending. But in the end, it's still up to the primary user to keep track of spending.

Moose coach confident in rebound performance

Memorial Cup.

Herd learn from loss, but convinced their CHL run is 'far from over'

ANDREW RANKIN
Metro in Saskatoon

The sky isn't falling in Dominique Ducharme's world.

The morning after the Halifax Mooseheads suffered a 5-2 loss to the Memorial Cup underdog Saskatoon Blades, the Herd's bench boss was looking as composed as ever in front of reporters in Saskatoon.

He knew his squad didn't battle hard enough and for the second straight night produced sluggish first-period efforts.

He also knows that the No. 1-ranked junior team in the nation will be better come Tuesday, when the Herd face the Ontario Hockey League champion London Knights in their final round-robin game of the tournament.

"We want to be playing a solid 60 minutes," said Ducharme. "It's in the past, but we have to learn from it and make the adjustments. We need to improve our starts, the way we play with the puck, without the puck."

Facing last year's Memorial Cup finalists, Ducharme and the Mooseheads, who hold a record of 1-1, know they have no time to dwell. After taking the day off Monday, the Herd will be looking to get back to their winning ways.

"We want to make sure we're more consistent in what we do," he said.

"You have to remain patient, taking what the other team is giving you. We got sucked into Saskatoon's game a little bit. But that's part of playing here, and playing new teams."

Halifax opened its tournament Saturday with a convincing 7-4 victory over the Western Hockey League champion Portland Winterhawks. Nathan MacKinnon led the way against Portland, recording three goals and an assist.

MacKinnon also scored against Saskatoon, as did Stephen MacAulay.

As for Tuesday, the Mooseheads players are promising a much better effort.

"The tournament is far from over," Mooseheads forward Darcy Ashley said following Sunday's loss. "You lose a hockey game, but there are lots of ways to win in this tournament."

Making adjustments

"It's a learning process for us.... Sometimes we get beaten because of the battle level, sometimes it's because of positioning."

Mooseheads coach Dominique Ducharme on the team's unexpected 5-2 loss versus the underdog Saskatoon Blades.

WE WILL NEVER BE UNDERSOLD

Ducharme blossoms with help from Hartley

Memorial Cup. After 23 years, Herd's bench boss and NHL coaching veteran continue strong friendship

ANDREW RANKIN
Metro in Saskatoon

There's rarely a week goes by that Bob Hartley and Dominique Ducharme don't take time to connect.

It's been 23 years since Ducharme first suited up for the Calgary Flames' current head coach, as a 17-year-old forward with the Ontario Junior A Hockey League's Hawkesbury Hawks.

Today, they remain the closest of friends.

There was an immediate connection between the two. The Halifax Mooseheads bench boss found a mentor able to draw the best out of him. For the veteran NHL coach, he saw a selfless, natural leader.

"I remember him as a 17-year-old. He was very mature for his age, very focused," Hartley said.

As head coach of the Laval Titan of the QMJHL, Hartley drafted Ducharme, who ultimately opted for NCAA with the

Flames head coach Bob Hartley, left, chats with Alex Tanguay, a former Halifax Mooseheads forward, during training camp in January. JEFF MCINTOSH/THE CANADIAN PRESS

University of Vermont. But the pair would unite briefly while Hartley was behind the bench with the AHL's Cornwall Aces.

Their paths have once again crossed at the Memorial Cup in Saskatoon. Hartley is here as a broadcaster, scout and Mooseheads fan. His son Steve is an assistant coach with the Herd and played for Ducharme in junior-A.

Hartley knew all along that Ducharme had the tools to thrive.

"He's a very patient guy. He's not a guy who shows his emotion but he's very technical, he's very passionate and it's contagious."

For Ducharme, Hartley has been an invaluable source of advice. Such as when he called on Hartley as a coach with the Joliette Action of the Quebec junior-AAA hockey league when his squad was down 3-0 in a best-of-seven playoff series.

"It was what I needed," Ducharme said. "He said, 'Keep going, keep showing confidence in your players, don't look far ahead, take it one game at a time.'"

They came back and won the series. Ducharme applied that same advice in last year's playoffs run, when the Mooseheads rebounded from a 3-0 deficit to eliminate the Quebec Remparts.

This season, Ducharme has already led Halifax to its first QMJHL title and is looking to bring home the franchise's first Memorial Cup.

"The American League could come calling for him soon," Hartley said of Ducharme.

"You never know, then he'd be off to the pro ranks"

London-Portland

Knights come up short in 3rd

They made it interesting but the London Knights couldn't pull it out.

After roaring back from a 3-0 second-period deficit, the Knights couldn't complete the comeback and fell 6-3 to the Portland Winterhawks in Saskatoon on Monday night.

The Knights came out sluggish and the WHL champions, coming off a surprising 7-4 loss to the Halifax Mooseheads, made them pay. Ty Rattie's beautiful backhand deke gave Portland a 3-0 lead 10:23 into the second.

That's when London woke up, and 14 seconds later Knights forward Scott Harrington started the comeback and Alex Broadhurst and Bo Horvat scored to tie the contest at 1:38 of the third.

But Portland pushed back with two goals in 23 seconds to put the game away and chase Knights netminder Anthony Stolarz from the contest.

Rattie would add an empty-netter to seal the victory.

The Knights, who boast a record of (1-1) will finish the round robin against the Mooseheads on Tuesday.

Conference semifinal

Gustav Nyquist and Drew Miller scored 31 seconds apart midway through the second period and Pavel Datsyuk restored a two-goal lead in the third to help the Detroit Red Wings beat the Chicago Blackhawks 3-1 on Monday night to take a 2-1 lead in the second-round series.

Patrick Kane scored 4:35 into the third period to pull Chicago within one. The Blackhawks celebrated as if they tied the game about a minute later, but Andrew Shaw's goal was waved off because he was in the crease.

Datsyuk's goal 6:46 into the final period gave the Red Wings a 3-1 lead.

The seventh-seeded Red Wings have a shot to put the top-seeded Blackhawks on the brink of elimination Thursday night in Game 4.

Detroit's Jimmy Howard made 39 saves and Corey Crawford stopped 27 shots.

Chicago has lost consecutive games for the first time in nearly two months.

The Blackhawks began the lockout-shortened season by setting an NHL record with at least a point in their first 24 games, ended it with a league-high 77 points and avoided having a three-game losing streak during the 48-game campaign. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Alfredsson named a finalist for leadership award

Daniel Alfredsson of the Ottawa Senators, Dustin Brown of the Los Angeles Kings and Jonathan Toews of the Chicago Blackhawks are the three finalists for the Mark Messier NHL Leadership Award.

The award is presented to the player "who exemplifies great leadership qualities to his team, on and off the ice during the regular season."

Alfredsson, the NHL's longest-serving active captain, leads the Senators in games played, goals, assists and points.

Brown has spent his nine-year NHL career with the Kings, serving as captain for the past five seasons.

Toews was named captain of the Blackhawks in 2008 when he was just 20 years old, making him the third-youngest captain in NHL history at the time.

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

If you believe in what you are doing with all your heart, nothing can stop you. The Sun is now moving through the communications area of your chart. It should make it easy to get others to do your bidding.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

If you have a secret of some sort, you must keep it to yourself today. The moment you let one person in on the details, everyone will know. Some people are such gossips.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Although the Sun is now moving through your birth sign, it seems you are still worrying about mistakes you made in the past. Why? Yesterday is over and done.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

You must expect to be more emotional about certain things over the next few weeks while the Sun creeps through the most sensitive area of your chart. Control those emotions but don't deny them.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Try to stand back from what you are doing and see the bigger picture. You have come a long way in a short space of time and it's likely that you have veered a little off course.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

You can sense that huge responsibilities are coming your way and no doubt that makes you want to hide under the duvet until they pass. That won't help in the slightest. Get out there and get busy.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

You don't need to bludgeon your way to success. Libra is one of the more subtle signs of the zodiac, so find ways to get what you want without making a big noise about it — and certainly without making more enemies.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Different people will tell you different things today and if you are smart, you will ignore every last word of it. Your sixth sense is all you need to work out what is really going on.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

If you have something to say then get to the point quickly because those you deal with today won't be in the mood to listen to long explanations. Save the speeches for when you got their attention.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You've been so busy in recent weeks that you may not realize how much energy you have expended and how tired you are. The Sun's move through the wellbeing area of your chart urges you to slow down.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

The only reason a colleague is being so critical is because they resent your success. There is nothing they can say to take away what you have earned so there is no need to fear them.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

Matters close to home will take up a lot of your time over the next few days, so you will need to arrange your timetable with care so you have time to fit everything in. SALLY BROMPTON
